Charles F. Allen Founder of AASC to speak here

• ONE of the outstanding figures to appear here April 7-9 in connection with the Arkansas Association of Student Councils is Charles F. Allen, who will speak Saturday on the subject "Purposes of Student Council Work."

Mr. Allen, who founded the AASC and was influential in beginning the Southern Association of Student Councils, speaking for student councils, says, "The spirit of the school is determined largely by the kind of council that helps administer the school. I have often stated that much of the success of the Fort Smith schools is due to the fine student council the school has always sponsored."

REFERRING to his chief interest, America's youth, Mr. Allen said, "It is the youth of today who will control the future of our nation. Anyone who fails to believe in this ability and success of our young people must confess his lack of faith in the future of our nation, for the nation is what every citizen makes it."

Teacher of the week

Council sponsor receives tribute for hard work

by Bettye Fleming

• IT'S CONVENTION TIME! Who does the planning for such an occasion? For this particular student council convention, the planning has been directed by Mrs. Hallie Beth Thackaberry, math teacher and sponsor of the FSHS student council.

Mrs. Hallie Beth Thackaberry

Besides planning for the convention next week, Mrs. Thackaberry's regular student council activity includes meeting with the student council every Tuesday to help students work together toward improvement for the school. Students depend on her for sound judgment and carefully considered advice, according to Mary Beth Taylor, vice-president. Honors to you, Mrs. Thackaberry, for leading our student council—we name you "teacher of the week."

5 Future Teachers attend convention

• FIVE MEMBERS of the local chapter of Future Teachers of America attended the annual convention at Little Rock March 8-9. They were Pat Harper, president, Carolyn Quoss, vice-president, Linda Quoss, Elizabeth Buell, Patsy Dillion and Miss Irene Barnwell, sponsor.

Highlight of the convention program included speakers from Puerto Rico lecturing on the subject "Teacher Education in Latin America" and talks on "Why I Am a Teacher."

District meet honors go to local Key Club

• ONCE AGAIN FSHS Key Club members have walked off with honors from the annual Mo-Ark district convention, held this year March 18-20 at Connor Hotel in Joplin, Missouri. Three members, Tony Council, Gary Wisener and Bob Anderson, represented the FSHS chapter at the meeting.

Tony, a sophomore, was elected district treasurer for the coming year. "This is the sixth year the FSHS Key Club has held a major office such as governor, secretary or treasurer," said Bob Anderson, out-going district treasurer.

GARY, a junior, was named the lieutenant-governor of District 10, which is considered a distinct honor in Key Club work, according to Bob Anderson. He is the co-ordinator between the governor and the districts, and his main job will be to better relations between such clubs as Rogers, Fayetteville, Paris and Fort Smith.

An annual achievement report, printed and bound, written by Bob Haynes received a first place rating, which is another definite honor.
